Dear Student!

Dear University Citizen!

The Virological Research Group of the UP Szentágothai Research Center is planning a study to investigate the possible asymptomatic transmission of the new coronavirus (2019-nCoV) in order to better understand the clinical relevance of the virus infection and its role in clinical practice.

Study identification:

Title: Detection of asymptomatic transmission of the new coronavirus (2019-nCoV)

Name, title of chief researcher: Dr. Ferenc Jakab, professor

Research location: University of Pécs

Number of individuals to include in the research: ~400 (primarily students arriving back from China)

For our research, we would like to collect your throat swab sample. (This is a non-invasive process, only takes a few seconds and it is absolutely painless.)

If you agree with the use of your samples for our experiments, please, sign the following statement of consent. The data you provide will solely be used as background for virological research, and will not be disclosed, or used for any other purpose! For the sake of your own health and the safety of our university community we really appreciate your cooperation!

We profoundly appreciate your help.
